Academic Traditions

CONFERRING THE DEGREE AND GRANTING THE DIPLOMA

One of the earliest distinctive signs used by medieval university officials was the academic sceptre or mace. The mace was originally a wooden staff carried by royal messengers. The Convocation ceremony begins with the arrival of the mace, followed by the senior executive officers. Graduates receive their degree from the University of Guelph and diploma from Humber College Institute of Technology and Advanced Learning.

THE UNIVERSITY OF GUELPH MACE

The University of Guelph Mace is topped by the silver crown of Queen Victoria (reigning monarch when the founding colleges were established) and decorated with native Canadian stones. Below the crown are the insignia of Queen Elizabeth II and the founding colleges of the University, plus four plaques bearing the Coats of Arms of Canada, Ontario, the city of Guelph, and the University.

THE HUMBER COLLEGE MACE

The mace is hand-carved from walnut. The crown of the mace features a stylized Earth formed by five ribbons, celebrating the students who came to Humber from five of the world's continents. The ribbons tie together to form a flame, representing knowledge. The mace is terminated by a stylized red-tailed hawk, recognizing Humber's varsity athletic teams, holding a tether in its beak.

THE UNIVERSITY OF GUELPH-HUMBER BELL

The University of Guelph-Humber bell is used to celebrate transition. It represents the process or period in which students undergo a change. The ringing of the bell symbolizes the passing from one stage of life to another. Following the Convocation ceremony, graduates will be invited to ring the bell to mark the official end of their educational journey at the University of Guelph-Humber and their entry into the alumni family.

THE UNIVERSITY OF GUELPH-HUMBER TASSEL

In 1896, North American colleges and universities adopted a uniform code for commencement regalia that included the use of tassels. The graduation tassel often indicates a school affiliation, bearing the school colours. Graduates of the University of Guelph-Humber receive a tassel at Convocation bearing the red and blue school colours. The tassel is bound with gold and includes a medallion.

THE EAGLE STAFF

A shared tradition of Indigenous Nations, the Eagle Staff was considered a sacred item that represented the deeds or accomplishments of a Nation, society, or family. One of the most common types of eagle staffs are seen in the Grand Entries of Pow Wows are made up of a stick that has been bent into a curve on one end, like a large cane. Eagle staff carriers are appointed to carry the staffs and they lead the Grand Entry.

These curved or bent staffs link the deeds or accomplishments to the sacred realm or what can be described as the great mystery. Eagle feathers are tied along the straight-end of the stick and are also fastened to the down-facing cane part of the staff, which is held away from the carrier and never held down to be pointed at people. Each eagle feather would have a story to represent the deeds and accomplishments. Coloured cloth is also added onto the staff that is to represent the main sacred colour of the Nation, society, or family. A song may also be composed by a song-maker to represent the eagle staff.

There is no specific way as to how an eagle staff may be designed. The maker of the staff is usually gifted to be able to channel a sacred vision as to how the staff should look. Once an eagle staff is made, it is then brought into a sweat lodge ceremony to be steamed off, and is then activated. A lot of care and protocol must then follow in taking care of the eagle staff.

The Humber eagle staff is specific to Humber College and the University of Guelph-Humber. The 7 flowers represent the seven grandfather teachings and how we want to live our life, values and character through the seven grandfather teachings, love, honesty, respect, truth, humility, wisdom and bravery. There are 7 eagle feathers attached to the coloured cloth reinforcing the importance of the seven grandfather teachings and values important to many Indigenous peoples. The dreamcatcher is in a circle with the colours of the medicine wheel around it reflecting the medicine wheel teaching and that we balance the mental, emotional, physical and spiritual aspects in our lives. A braid of sweetgrass is along the curved part of the eagle staff symbolizing one of the sacred medicines gifted to Indigenous peoples and can provide healing and connection with the creator.

INDIGENOUS MEDALLIONS

Graduates who self-identify as Indigenous can receive a medallion from the Indigenous Education and Engagement table at Convocation. The medallion can be worn at Convocation to display pride in their history and culture. The medallions acknowledge the graduates' accomplishments and underscore the importance of the tradition of gift giving to Indigenous peoples.

MODERN ACADEMIC DRESS

Modern academic dress has its roots in the colour robes introduced by Oxford and Cambridge 800 years ago. Early students were usually clerks in holy orders, monks or priests who wore a habit or cloak with a cowl or hood. Today, the style and colours of regalia vary slightly from one university to another. The graduation hat has also changed throughout the centuries and with many variations. The most prevalent style for undergraduate institutions is the mortarboard cap, which has a flat square shape. At the University of Guelph-Humber, caps and gowns are black and hoods are edged with gold. The silk lining on the inside of the hood bears the colours of the University of Guelph-Humber.

THE BEADLE

In all medieval universities the beadle was an officer who exercised various executive functions. The role of the beadle still survives in most universities and is carried out by various officials within each institution.

The duties of the beadle are now chiefly ceremonial - carrying the mace while leading the academic procession and placing the hoods on the graduands' shoulders.

At the University of Guelph-Humber, the role of beadle is carried out by Melissa Melo, the first recipient of the Michael Nightingale Community Enrichment Award in 2006.
