0:12.4-0:21	“Hello and welcome to Beyond the Plant Wall, where we get down to the root of the information and we tell you everything you need to know, about the University of Guelph-Humber.”
0:21-0:26	“I'm your host Mark Onufer and with us today we have Glenn Hanna representing the Justice Program.”
0:26-0:27.7	“Thank you for joining us here. - My pleasure.”
0:28.2-0:32.3	“Let's talk a little bit about the program. What is the program all about?”
0:32.3-0:43.7	“It is about taking the working professional who has a college diploma or some degrees and helping them cross that line and to graduate with a degree.”
0:43.7-0:51.2	“It is providing the critical thinking theoretical models that will help them do their job even better.”
0:51.2-0:57.5	“So what can someone who is already in the working field, and they're coming into the program, what can they expect in their time here in the program?”
0:57.5-1:22.4	“It is specifically designed for the working professional. So it's a hybrid delivery. A Friday night, Saturday, Sunday in class here at our campus in Toronto, and then that's followed by six weeks of distance. So you're doing readings, you're doing quizzes, you're doing online discussions, preparing papers, then you meet a Friday night and Saturday morning. That's the end of that course, six weeks."

1:22.4-
1:22.9

"Right."

1:23-1:44.2

"So in 12 weeks, you do two courses, one course at a time, which we very purposefully had done so that you can concentrate on one professor, one set of requirements, one course at a time, in addition to your work. Then you have three weeks off, and you just keep repeating until you're done. The total number of courses is 16."

1:44.2-
1:44.7
1:45.3-
1:56.1

"Right."

"If you have some specific additional education, four more courses can be knocked off that, so 12. So some of our students take 12, some take 16."

1:56.1-
2:02.2

"Now we want to know if there are any limitations, misconceptions, difficulties in this program, that students should be aware of."

2:02.2-
2:09.2

"One of the big things is nervousness in going back to school. So a lot have been out of school for many years, myself it was 24 years."

2:09.2-
2:16.9

"And you can speak from experience? - I was petrified of the thought of being back. But we understand that and we are ready for that."

2:16.9-
2:33.5

"One of your first courses, a reading and writing course, we teach you how to read and write, the way universities expect you to, and it's a very good, smooth transition into university life."

2:33.6-
2:52.7

"The other is the level of demand on time. You know busy people with family lives, with busy professional lives how can I now add something else on? For our degree completion program, the BAA, I say its average is about 10 hours a week, and it's very manageable while working.”

2:52.7-2:55

“Thank you for joining us here today on Beyond the Plant Wall.”

2:55-2:56.7

"My pleasure, thanks for your interest."

2:56.9-
3:02.6

"That is all for today on the show. You heard it from Glenn himself, if you're considering it, just do it.”

3:02.9-
3:05.6

"Thank you so much and we will see you next month.”
